Burns and Scalds on Children.

A very frequent and serious form of accident to the little ones arises from leaving ... matches, or vessels of boiling water, where they will be too accessible, and it is well to know what to do in such emergency. Should the clothing catch fire, immediately lay the child flat on the floor, and roll the hearth-rug, a shawl, or some other garment, round it to smother the flames. If a doctor can be obtained, leave a child quiet, only keeping it warm and moist, give hot milk as a drink. If the doctor cannot be got at once, very carefully remove the clothing, cutting any part which tends to stick to the skin. Do not make any blisters, but cover the whole surface with strips of linen soaked in oil, or where oil cannot be obtained, dredge down liberally, and then cover with cotton wool. Scalds result when the child plays with a hot tea, or kettle, etc., or itself, or is treated in the same way as burns. Burns of burns or scalds are serious, and should be seen by a doctor as soon as possible.

Ingenious Smuggling.

One of the most ingenious devices for smuggling was detected in Russia not long since. O. L. Batovitch of St. Petersburg, a great number of false bank notes had been introduced into the dominions of the Czar. They could only have been made by a Russian, and although the strictest watch was made habitually over every eye, no trace of the forgery was discovered. ... however, at last brought the ... to light. ### TURPIN'S TERRIBLE GUN.

The Deadly Machine Now Being Studied by the French Government.

Even perfidious Alphonse and his "Conjuring" arrangements are forgotten now in Paris, for to all men's minds there is one absorbing question—whether M. Turpin's new engine of destruction is as formidable as it is made out to be by the inventor. M. Turpin is still a very young man who has had a remarkable past. He is who nine years ago invented the smokeless powder which has already been adopted by every country in the world as the only possible propelling force of the future. Later on his researches in chemistry, and particularly in pyrotechnics, enabled him to evolve melinite, for describing the constituents of which at length in a French paper he was cast into prison by M. de Freycinet and kept imprisoned for nearly two years and six months, during which time he wrote a remarkable treatise on the stars that at once ranks him with our leading astronomers. M. Turpin's gun consists of specially designed cannon, each of which can, when required, be made to work separately, but can work better together and with more deadly effect. The cannon are of all appearance ordinary field pieces, but running under the breech to the ground is a hollowed out tube full of mechanism, so arranged that nothing but a shot from the enemy could upset its workings. Six of these cannon are mounted in line, and the tubes are inserted in a trough on wheels which has been before-hand filled with small shells. As soon as the priming has been made, which takes seven to ten seconds, the six guns begin automatically to launch their shells, the shells having merely to direct them. When the guns cease firing it is, of course, a sign that the trough is empty. It is then instantly wheeled away and the next trough is instantly put in place. Practically each trough represents the butt of a magazine rifle, only that instead of ordinary cartridges, shells are used, and there is no need of human manipulation to pull a trigger, the entire action being electrical and, of course, mechanical. A train of twenty-five of these Turpin street guns, which are very light, can throw 7,500 shots a minute over a distance of two miles, so that all the batteries of the future must be determined at a distance. The natural anger of Freycinet, in the unprovoked selfishness of his youth, had not failed to make the effort to remain so when his wife died. It is in the family where the girls' good looks and becoming clothes are taken as a matter of course, with just a friendly word of approval now and then, but where the appearance of the mother in a new gown is matter for interested comment from husband, daughters and sons in family council assembled, that the mistress of the house is likely to remain long young, and always charming.

STRUGGLE WITH A SHARK.

He Tackles a Boat With His Tail, Throws the Occupant Into the Water, And is Finally Killed.

The summer guests at Sayville, L. I., witnessed a lively fight between an ugly shark and Captain Oakley the other afternoon. The people who usually bathe in the afternoon were afraid to enter the water, fearing a big shark which was swimming lazily back and forth along the shore. Captain Oakley, who used to be a fisherman who volunteered to go out in a fishing skiff and drive the shark away. He went out to where the shark was, and finally succeeded in hitting him upon the snout. The shark showed fight from the minute he was struck. Captain Oakley next picked up his heavy boathook and hit the shark on the back. The shark now began to lash the boat with his tail, and for a time it looked as if he would succeed in swamping the captain. The fish, in the mean time, was being vigorously prodded with the boathook. He gave up at last, apparently, and swam away from the boat. The spectators loudly cheered the captain, believing the fight had been won by Oakley. The shark turned back, however, and swam toward the boat at a great rate of speed. Captain Oakley thought his intention was to strike the boat head on, but instead of this he sprang into the boat. The shark switched his tail and flopped around, while the captain hammered him with the boathook. Oakley finally got a snap on his thigh, which he hit into the water headlong. The captain didn't know whether the shark would follow him into the water and swallow him or not, so he swam toward the shore as rapidly as possible. The shark did not jump out, but rolled around on the boat until the rescuing party—who had set out to help Oakley and had picked him up—killed him by pounding him with oars and boathooks. The shark was six feet long and weighed over two hundred pounds.

SCORE ONE FOR CANADA.

The Beaver Contentedly Contemplates the Eagle's Muffled Feathers.

There are times when the American eagle sits very quietly in a remote corner of the aviary and refuses to indulge in his tendency to scream. It is when on the one side of his cage he sees city mounds and factory locusts and on the other side he notes the quiet and content of his Canadian neighbors, says the Chicago Interior. Are our friends north of the great lakes made of other flesh and blood than we. Are they speaking different tongues and bred in opposite faiths, more homogeneous. It will be a day long in the future before any one sees a head of discontent among the nations of the "Canada Pacific." Who can remember a case of lynching north of the boundary line of our state? The fact is that we are drifting rapidly toward anarchy, and there is no use in assuming to be blind to the signs. The elements that threaten our national and state capitals would not be tolerated for an hour in a remote settlement of Manitoba. Even the Indian tribes are becoming more and more lawless as soon as he crosses the line. England suffers neither civil nor savage to doubt her laws, we suffer immigrant, tramp and desperado to go his own way; and just now we are paying dearly for the substitution of voluntary organization for civil compacts. Centuries before Christ was born a philosopher of Greece described the orbit of a state through revolution, liberty, lawlessness, back to despotism again. The question will rise in every thoughtful mind, are we nearing the apogee from which we started one hundred and twenty years ago? He—"Why are you forever roasting Charles Henderson?" She—"Simply because he isn't half baked."

LOVELY MOTHERS.

How to Make Mothers Remains Long Young and Always Charming.

Pleasant indeed is the spectacle of a mother renewing her youth in the youth of her daughter delighting in the girl's freshness and piquancy, forwarding her innocent pleasures and finding a lovely and unselfish joy in adorning her young beauty for festive occasions.

There are few sights prettier; but of one of these few is the same situation reversed—the girl cherishing the maternally good looks of the mother; insisting that her costumes shall be modern and becoming; scouting the idea of her being relegated to dingy hues and common fabrics; preferring her mother's claim to new garments to her own, and going merrily shabby, if necessary, in old clothes redeemed by the sufficient grace of youth, that the mistress of the home may be suitably attired.

This sight, fortunately, is not a rare one, but it is far less common than the other. True, many girls say, and say honestly, that their mothers prefer to make over their old dresses or wear them regardless of the fashion, that their daughters, at all ages, to take keener pleasure in little dainties and harmless frivolities, may have what is new and dainty. So far as the clothes alone are concerned, good mothers do indeed prefer it. But they never fail to find it sweet and comforting when their children prefer the contrary.

"You want to play dolls with me mother, and I won't have it," said one young girl playfully to her mother, who was explaining a new hat for her. "I have enough hats as it is, and I decline to be dressed up in any more for your amusement. Now I am going to dress you and we will consider the question of your best bonnet."

"But I don't need another bonnet," began the mother. "I am not considering your needs," was the imperious reply. "I am considering my own. I need that you should have a best bonnet!" The bonnet was bought, of course; and if the mother did not enter as ardently as she might in her youth into the matter of flowers or lace, brown or lilac, she cared quite as much as ever she would have cared to hear that it was becoming, when the person telling her so was her eldest girl, who only pronounced the decision after a pause of breathless contemplation, walking off to distant points of view, passing by hand to get the effect from the rear, lighting the lamps to make sure the colors matched properly in the evening, and admiring at length with clasped hands and an expression of pleasure on her face.

To dress youthfully when youth is passed is foolish and repulsive; but a woman is never too old to dress beautifully, no more than she is too old to be beautiful. There is beauty of youth, beauty of middle life and beauty of old age; and these latter charms should be the especial pride and delight of children and grandchildren.

Care for a mother tends to ward off the wrinkles that creep over her children bring; and many a dull, somber or shabbily clad mother might still be as lovely to the eye as a young girl, if only her children, in the unprovoked selfishness of their youth, had not failed to make the effort to remain so when their wife died.

It is in the family where the girls' good looks and becoming clothes are taken as a matter of course, with just a friendly word of approval now and then, but where the appearance of the mother in a new gown is matter for interested comment from husband, daughters and sons in family council assembled, that the mistress of the house is likely to remain long young, and always charming.

THE AGING PRINCE.

The Hair to the Throne Looks a Dozen Years Older Than It Really Is.

The Prince of Wales is getting to be an old man. He is now in his 53rd year, but the life of inaction and royal restraint, which he has led makes him at least a dozen years older than a healthy man of the same age who has spent his prime in active business pursuits, remarks a writer in the New York Sun. The prerogative of fashion leader of the masculine smart set in England he has lost unused for years—that is to say up to a week or two ago, when he appeared one night in a colored dress coat. This innovation, which, strange to say, has met with no particular evidences of sudden favor, is the third that the Prince has introduced in masculine fashions. It is chronicled that he once surprised London by appearing in Hyde Park in lavender gloves when everybody else was wearing sober colors. His second attempt in this line was made in Hamburg several years ago, when he wore a peculiar coat which he discarded as soon as he saw it copied. His latest decree will, it is said, meet with the enthusiastic approval of swell tailors on both sides of the ocean, who have long been inclined to dispute the sway of the solemn black garment that has been the approved evening dress for generations. Beyond wishing for a change, however, the fashionable tailors of London have no objection, as they found out long ago that does not pay to take the initiative in radical innovations.

The Prince is a very popular man in England, as much on account of the great respect with which he is greeted, perhaps, as anything else. He is able, through the autocratic influence which he wielded over London society, to decree either the social success or the social death of anyone who may have the good or ill fortune to attract his notice. A few quiet words to the effect that he objects to some individual is enough to result in the social ostracism of the object of his displeasure, and a word from him is all that is needed to secure admission to the innermost circles of the English social world.

In round numbers the annual income of the Prince may be placed at something more than $300,000, and it is said he spends every penny of this amount. The Prince, according to his latest photograph, is considerably thinner than he has been in past seasons. His height is barely 5 feet 7 inches, and his normal weight is in the neighborhood of 180 pounds. After all, the life of a Prince of Wales nowadays is hardly a happy one. He is wedged in on all sides by the treatment which holds in check every natural sense and sentiment, and forbids any exhibition of many nature beyond the narrow limits it prescribes.

Swimming in the Dead Sea.

As for the Dead Sea, it will, in contradiction to its name, forever preserve a green and living memory in my mind, says a letter. No fish can survive in it, we all know; but for a place for a swim, or, above all, for a boat, commend me to it beyond all the Winesapassakes in the world. How it bears you up in its arms! How it annihilates the tiresome ponderosity and dignity of the law of gravitation! How it introduces you into the inner consciousness of dusty Ariel and Charles Darnley, and all other airy-fairy creatures! The more you weigh, the less you weigh; there is the real hydrostatic paradox. An elephant in the Dead Sea would feel himself a gnat. Then, what a relief to the weary traveler, that morning and how beautiful the reflections of the mountains of Palestine on one band and of Moab on the other!

POETRY.

Land Poor.

I've had another offer, wife, a twenty-acre more of very fertile farming land as level as a floor. I thought I'd wait and see you first, as Lawyer Brady said, and now I'm sure you'll be glad to tell how things will turn out best, a woman is ahead.

And when this lot is paid for, and we have got the deed. I'll say the land is all the land we need. And next we'll see about the yard, and fix the house up, and in the course of time to have a better home.

There's no use talking, said the wife, you buy that twenty more. And we'll scrimp all our lives, and always be land poor. For they're from we're tugged and slaved, denying half our needs. While all we have to show for it is untitled land and debt.

I'll sell the land, if it were mine, and have a better home. A pleasant garden close at hand, where you and I could live as others live, and have what others do.

We'd live a deal happier, and still have plenty, too. While others have amusements, and resting times and books. Just think how hardly we have lived and how the old folks will be.

For they're from we're tugged and slaved, denying half our needs. While all we have to show for it is untitled land and debt.

Yes, Charles. Two thought of it a hundred times of more. And I really paid to always be land poor. That had I built a cozy home, took pleasure in my home.

Our children, once so dear to us, had never wished to roam. I grieve to think of wasted weeks and years. While for all we never yet have had one word of praise.

Men who have more are poor—would we not freely give the land and all its fixtures for a better way to live!

Don't think that I am blaming you—you're not a whit to blame. I've pitied you these many years to see you just the way we started out, our plans too far ahead.

We've seen the cream of life away, to leave a "pile" when dead. Disputing all enjoyment, till no longer we enjoy. And, after all, too much of wealth seems useless to us now.

Although we've learned, alas, too late, what to hear that it was becoming, when the person telling her so was her eldest girl, who only pronounced the decision after a pause of breathless contemplation, walking off to distant points of view, passing by hand to get the effect from the rear, lighting the lamps to make sure the colors matched properly in the evening, and admiring at length with clasped hands and an expression of pleasure on her face.

The Lightning's Touch. Is scarcely more rapid than the lightning like action of Nerveine in all kinds of pain. It is neuralgia's relief is certain and rapid. Toothache is cured as if by magic. Rheumatism finds a master in a few applications of the powerful and penetrating Nerveine. In a word, pain, whether internal or external, finds a prompt antidote in Nerveine. Give Nerveine a trial. Druggists and dealers everywhere sell it, and it costs only 25 cents a bottle.

A pleasant and profitable employment for ladies is that of soliciting orders for roses, clematis, shrubs, etc. Brown Bros. Co., Toronto, Ont., will give any worthy woman a trial, paying expenses.

Canada's Great Fair for 1894.

The Toronto Industrial Exhibition, which is to be held from the 3rd to the 15th of September, will no doubt be the greatest fair of the present year, and from present indications it promises to excel all others, both in point of exhibits and in attendance of visitors. The grounds have been vastly improved since last year, and already most of the space in all the buildings has been applied for. All entries close on the 11th of August. A good programme of special attractions, both novel and interesting, will be provided as usual. It is only a little over a month to the time of the fair, and our readers cannot choose a better holiday trip than this one. Cheap excursions will be usual on all railways at rates in keeping with the times. This great Fair has now become one of the best and most popular educational and entertainment enterprises on this continent, and attracts visitors each year, not only from all parts of the Dominion, but from the United States as well, and those who have never been there would be surprised at its magnitude and attractiveness, being almost like a World's Fair, only on a smaller scale.

Safe, Sure, and Painless.

What a word of meaning this statement conveys. Just what you are looking for, is it not? Eutan's Pain-Expeller, the great Extractor—the great sure-quick cure—acts in this way. It makes no sore spots; safe, acts speedily and with certainty; sure and mild, without inflaming the parts; painless. Do not be imposed upon by imitations or substitutes.

"Common Sense" Brand.

We wish to draw special attention to the adv. of M. L. Samuel, Benjamin & Co. Re-Builder Twine. The twine they handle is the well known "Common Sense" Brand, this being now the fifth season for it. It has in that time established itself as being the best and most reliable twine in the world, its length per lb. is equal to the Red Cap. It will certainly pay all farmers to give it a trial.

A GLASGOW MIRACLE.

A SCOTCH LASSIE RESCUED BY A CANADIAN.

Her Life Was Despaired of—Subject to Fainting Spells and Heart Trouble—Doctors Said Recovery Was Impossible—A Wonderful Story.

From the Glasgow Echo. The case of "Little Nell," whose miraculous cure was reported in the newspapers, with a subsequent letter from the Rev. Samuel Harding, is but one in a series of similar cases in Glasgow. The latest is that of Miss Lizzie Duncan, a young woman who has been snatched back to life. She was in what is termed a "declining" stage, with inches before the eyes of her parents, and her sad condition seems to have been known to a number of people. Consequently when she was found to have escaped the threatened death, and to be, apparently, as well as anyone in Glasgow, a tremendous impetus was given to the prevalent talk, and an Echo reporter was directed to make a searching investigation, with the result that this strange story was entirely confirmed.

Arriving at 25 Stirling Road, the reporter was conducted into the presence of Mrs. Duncan by a rosy-cheeked young woman, who proved to be Miss Duncan, who looked no way like an invalid.

"This is the lassie," said the mother. "Heaven knows that a miracle has been wrought upon her. Eighteen months ago Lizzie began to pine away. The color left her entirely, and she appeared to be as weak as water. One Sunday morning she was empty from her grave. Lizzie, our medicine, but altogether of extraordinary virtue called Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I said to my husband, 'In the name of God let's try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.' Well, before the first box was empty there was an improvement. She persevered and when she had finished her fifth box she was perfectly well, and there is not now a stronger young woman in the town of Glasgow, though at one time she was a living skeleton. You can ask any of the neighbors," said Mrs. Duncan in conclusion, "or any person in the street and they will confirm my story."

"I am stronger than ever I was in my life," added the daughter, "yet I can hardly describe how ill I was. I was certainly dying. I could neither go nor stand; I was afraid to walk on account of the fluttering sensation at my heart. I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as my mother had described, and feel that they saved my life."

Miss Wood, the lady who drew the reporter's attention to the case, said that the parents had their daughter's photograph taken, for they thought that she would be sleeping in her grave. You can ask any of the neighbors," said Mrs. Duncan in conclusion, "or any person in the street and they will confirm my story."

"I am stronger than ever I was in my life," added the daughter, "yet I can hardly describe how ill I was. I was certainly dying. I could neither go nor stand; I was afraid to walk on account of the fluttering sensation at my heart. I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as my mother had described, and feel that they saved my life."

Miss Wood, the lady who drew the reporter's attention to the case, said that the parents had their daughter's photograph taken, for they thought that she would be sleeping in her grave. Lizzie, our medicine, but altogether of extraordinary virtue called Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I said to my husband, 'In the name of God let's try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.' She persevered and when she had finished her fifth box she was perfectly well, and there is not now a stronger young woman in the town of Glasgow, though at one time she was a living skeleton. ### It's a Secret.

that many women owe their beauty to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The reason—beauty of form and face as well as grace, radiance from the common center—health. The best bodily condition results from good food, fresh air, and exercise, coupled with the judicious use of the "Prescription." In maidenhood, womanhood, and motherhood, it's a supporting tonic that's peculiarly adapted to her needs, regulating, strengthening, and curing, the derangements of the sex.

We have it on authority from what can be learned at the present time that the next general election for the North-West Legislature will take place about the latter end of November or the first of December.

Another landmark has been removed by the death of the well known Island House dog, Bob. Poor Bob was a friend of every frequenter of the house, and also a source of amusement, and will be missed by all. Peace to his ashes.

News comes from Edmonton that on Saturday afternoon Isare Roy was found dead in his camp, near Morinville. His son, a boy of thirteen, went with a man named Cousinson to look up claim stakes, and returned at noon and found the body. Roy had been clubbed on the head and stabbed in the heart. Robbery is supposed to be the motive. Forty dollars are said to have been stolen from the body.

It is said that dancing makes girls' feet large. It is also said that ice cream produces freckles. Doctors are of the opinion that hanging on the front gate produces rheumatism. The chewing of gum distorts the mouth. Playing the piano destroys the beauty of the hands, and washing dishes causes chaps to come—to propose, and yet girls will endure all these perils. They cannot be thrown off the seat by slandering ice cream.

Waghorn's Guide for August contains all the changes in tables of travel by rail, stage, ocean and lake to date, steamship sailings and the reduced rates of passage, etc. The new post offices opened are added, also new money order offices, new County Court sittings and a further list of School Districts in Manitoba, besides the usual tables corrected to date, of general business utility and maps of the province and city. A new map of County Court Districts as annexed recently is also given.

One would imagine that the dry season with a consequent shortage of crops was a sufficient trial for the struggling farmer to bear, but it would appear that he is every day in danger of being burned out either through the carelessness of the C.P.R. or the carelessness of their employees. As an instance, on Monday afternoon, two fires, one on each side of the town, were set going by a C.P.R. freight engine. We were under the impression, whether rightly or wrongly, that the grass had to be burned for a certain distance each side of the track. It is done so on other sections why not on this one? Should a fire start this dry weather there is no telling where it would stop or what amount of damage it would do to the already overburdened farmer. We hope our members both in the Dominion House and the North-West Legislature will take a note of this, and move in the matter.

—War has been formally declared between China and Japan.

—W. C. Ricardo, Calgary, has purchased the stock of Mr. Jas. Pike, advertised for sale in the Progress. The moral is plain.

Supplement to the Qu'Appelle Progress.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 9, 1894.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

On Thursday last, the fifth session of the second Legislative Assembly was opened with the usual ceremonies in the presence of a number of visitors. Seventeen members of the twenty-six were in attendance, including Messrs. Haultain, Davidson, Dill, Sutherland, Olive, Prince, Tweed, Neff, Watkins, Ross, Page, Insinger, Boucher, Clementson, Betts, Mowat and Jelly.

The speech of His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Mackintosh was a long one, and after a acknowledging with gratitude the many indications of friendliness, indulgence and forbearance manifested towards him, His Honor proceeded to deal with various subjects of interest to the Territories. While unable to congratulate husbandmen upon a plentiful harvest, telegraphic returns up to the present time justified the statement that there will be a fairly average yield in the largest producing centres, though the hot dry weather, hail and gales had done damage in some districts named. The progress of district school development evinced a wholesome desire on the part of all classes to encourage education. It devolved upon His Honor to lay before the Legislative Assembly various reports of the Committee of the Honorable the Privy Council at Ottawa, enclosing memorials regarding education in Manitoba and the North-West Territories, and upon the subject of Catholic schools. It was to be regretted that, despite the legislative measures adopted by the Assembly, there appeared to be no diminution in the number and area of prairie fires, rather the reverse. It might be politic for the Legislative Assembly to consider the advisability of still further amending the existing fire ordinances. It would no doubt afford the Assembly much satisfaction to learn that the criminal statistics of the Territories, although considered, proved that the population in general is desirous of maintaining order. Other matters dealt with in the speech referred to the number of joint stock companies in the Territories, the revision of statute labor districts, etc., the provision made for the insane and deaf mutes, crop statistics, the Dominion supplementary estimates, proposed Territorial Exhibition to be held at Regina in July, 1895, immigration, mining, the increase of noxious weeds, irrigation, oil boring tests, freight rates enquiry, the British Columbia floods, visit of Professor Robertson to the North-West, and the recent Intercolonial Conference.

The delivery of the speech occupied sixty-two minutes, during which time the members and visitors all remained standing. His Honor then withdrew, and his carriage left the grounds escorted by the N.W.M.P. guard, amidst the strains of the police band.

The chair was taken by the Speaker, and Mr. R. B. Gordon, secretary, read the proclamation appointing Lieutenant Governor Mackintosh.

Mr. Jos. Clementson, the recently elected member for Whitehead, was formally introduced to Mr. Speaker and the House by Mr. J. R. Neff.

On the motion of Mr. Haultain, seconded by Mr. Neff, it was decided that the speech of His Honor be considered the following Monday.

Mr. Haultain moved and Mr. Neff seconded that Messrs. Betts, Mowat, Dill, the mover and seconder, be a committee to strike the standing committees for the session. Carried.

The House then adjourned.

The members sat for a short time on Friday, the 3rd, the speaker taking the chair at 2.30.

Mr. Haultain asked leave to introduce on Monday the following bills: A bill to amend the school ordinance; a bill to amend the ordinance respecting mortgages and sales of personal property; a bill to amend the law relating to slander; a bill to amend the brand ordinance.

Mr. Davidson asked leave to introduce on Wednesday a bill to amend the noxious weeds ordinance.

Mr. Jelly gave notice that he would at next sitting ask the executive the following questions: What were the duties of Dr. Stewart when in the employ of the North-West Government? How long was he employed and what was the total expenditure in connection with the appointment?

LORLIE.

A gloom is at present cast over this settlement through the death of Miss A. Pallister, daughter of Mr. R. Pallister, who died at Fort Qu'Appelle on the 29th ult., at the age of 21 years. The circumstances connected with the death of this well known and popular young lady were so sad that the heart of the whole district seems touched. The funeral took place at Balcarres on Wednesday, in the presence of a large gathering of friends who followed the deceased to her last resting place. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. W. Bee, of Pheasant Hills, assisted by the Rev. J. Attwood, of Pheasant Forks. Mr. and Mrs. Pallister have the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Willis arrived here on Friday's stage, and left the same day for Battleford, where Mr. Willis is at present engaged as teacher at the high school.

Mr. F. W. Pinder, rancher, has returned from Beaver Hills.

Miss Burton, of Winnipeg, has been engaged as teacher for the school south-west of here, Miss Macdonald being recalled to headquarters on account of sickness.

Harvesting is now general. The crops are turning out much better than at one time anticipated.

We quite agree with the Lorie correspondent to the Grenfell Sun where he mentions that Mr. Gopher is working hard for his board, and is a present in the harvest field.

Mr. A. McGinley and a gentleman from Lethbridge have arrived in the settlement with another band of horses.

Mr. J. Morton, of Regina, has taken up his residence west of here. Jack is a jolly good fellow, and we hope he has come to stay.

PROFESSOR TANNER.

Free Press: Professor Tanner arrived Saturday from England. The object of his visit on this occasion has more to do with the development of lands in Manitoba than has previously been the case with him. He is more especially interested in the Red River lands, believing them to be among the most remarkable in their supplies of plant food of any lands in the North-West. His plans at present are by no means fully developed, but it has long appeared to him certain that the lands around Winnipeg were well worthy of attention and development.

Speaking to a Free Press reporter Saturday, he said, "I have given some time and attention in years past to the development of lands in the North-West and I am now equally anxious to do some useful work for the province of Manitoba."

Professor Tanner will make Winnipeg his headquarters for six or eight weeks, but prefers at present not to say anything about the line of operations he will pursue, but that he will devote himself to the formation of a company for the purpose of purchasing and settling the vacant lands around Winnipeg seems reasonably certain, should he become confirmed in his opinion of the value of the said lands for agricultural purposes after careful and systematic examinations.

WINNIPEG MARKETS.

(FROM THE WINNIPEG COMMERCIAL.)

Wheat.—Wheat in United States markets during the week has occupied a secondary place to corn. In fact the principal feature of wheat has been through the influence of corn. The visible supply statement on Monday showed a large increase, amounting to 3,373,000 bushels. Total stocks now are 57,144,000 bushels. Almost as large as the unprecedented stocks of a year ago, when they were 59,349,000 bushels, and they will soon exceed the heavy stocks of a year ago. The local situation has been dull and uninteresting, and holders and buyers are apart. Holders ask 61c. for No. 1 hard, basis at Fort William, but buyers stick at about 60c. Flour.—No change is reported in flour. Oats.—Prices are just about the same as a week ago, and in view of a short crop the feeling is firm for the season. Barley.—No business doing, and price nominal at 40 to 45c. per bushel here. Butter.—A little business is doing at about 14 to 15c. per lb. for selections and 11 to 12c. for round lots of average quality. The general feeling is dull. Cheese.—Early season cheese has sold at 8c., late makes at 9c. Eggs.—Case lots of candied stock have sold at 14c., and 12c. has been paid for round lots, whilst small lots have sold as low as 12c., but not for candied stock. Cured Meats.—Firm—indications have at last led to an advance. Prices are:—Hams, 10c. for heavy, and 11c. to 12c. for ordinary sizes; breakfast bacon, backs 12c., bellies 13c.; dry salt long clear bacon, 8c.; smoked long clear, 9c.; small smoked sides, 9c.; shoulders, 8c.; dry salt backs, 9c.; spiced rolls, 9c.; boneless hams, 12c.; mess pork, $15; selected mess, $17 per barrel. Dressed Meats.—Fresh meats are about the same except mutton, which can hardly be sold now at the outside quotation of a week ago. The extreme range on beef is also lower. Pork firm. Poultry.—14c. for turkey, dressed, or 10c. per lb. live weight. Ducks about 60c. per pair, or 10c. per lb. live weight. Chickens, 45 to 50c. per pair, as to quality, and spring chickens 30 to 35c. per pair. Hay.—Nothing doing much. There is considerable old as well as new offering at $4 to $4.50 for baled, country points. Live stock.—Cattle have sold this week about the same prices. Hogs are rather firm, the market being strengthened by buying for eastern Canada packers. We quote good packing hogs at 4c. Sheep are very dull. A load of fair mutton sheep sold this week at about 3c. live weight, which is about the lowest price ever recorded in this market.

Beef, per side 5c.; joints, 10c. Pork, 5c. per 100 lbs.; 8 to 12c. per lb. according to choice. Mutton, 12 to 15c. per lb.; per carcass, 10c. White fish, 6c. for quantities; 8c. per lb.
